

Stephanie Trudeau

BECOMING CHAVELA

ABOUT:

Singer/actress/writer and Fulbright Scholar, Stephanie Trudeau created and performs this 2020 Bistro Award winning musical docu-cabaret about iconic, trailblazing Mexican singer, Chavela Vargas.

Chavela was always edgy and is relevant today because her story pushes so many hot topic buttons: gender issues, gay rights, immigration and Mexican culture. Songs of lust and longing and stories of her friendships with Diego Rivera, Frida Kahlo, Liz Taylor and Pedro Almodovar will intrigue and entertain you.

A woman of substance, Almodóvar called her his muse and produced her triumphant comeback/second act after her recovery from alcoholism. Stephanie enacts Chavela's story in English and sing the songs she sang in Spanish, set within the art world and social milieu of mid-20 th Century Mexico City when it was the cultural capital of Latin America.

REVIEWS:

"It was a double dose of discovery, with the introduction to both the lovely Stephanie Trudeau and Chavela Vargas."
-- Andrew Poretz at Theater Pizzazz

"a delightful presentation and a pleasure from start to finish....Trudeau's warmth, charm, and love of her subject reached out into the audience" -- Paul Berss at NY Theatre Wire
